CALL 723-1400 FOR FAST ACTION

ROGERTOWN SHOP CUTTED

Clarendon and North Warren volunteer firemen tried in vain Monday morning to save a shop owned by Robert P. Ferry of RD 1 Clarendon. Twenty-eight responded to the call. Lack of water and bullets exploding inside the structure hampered their efforts.

Retailers Make Plans For Action

Members of the Retail Affairs Committee of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce, meeting last night for dinner at the Blue Manor, elected a vice-chairman and considered ways the committee could institute a more positive approach to effectively function.

Mrs. Mildred A. Anderson of the Betty Lee store, was unanimously elected vice-chairman by the group which also urged that the President of the Chamber present the official policy of the Chamber, as formulated by the board, at the next council meeting, concerning the proposed parking restrictions.

Discussion also ensued as to whether this committee should recommend a position to the board re: holiday closings. The consensus was that this is and should be an individual firms decision which is usually responsive to the demands of the public and that businesses should at all times be concerned with working towards a positive constructive approach, rather than reacting to problems. The suggestion was also made to make the retail area an attractive place to visit by providing such things as bench rest stops. The group also agreed to consider adopting and promoting an effective solicitation control program at their next regular scheduled meeting which was set for the second Tuesday of each month from 8:15 a.m. to 9:15 a.m. A report on the response to the proposed outing in August was also given. Attending the meeting were: Jake and Nahum Levinson, Gladys Krupey, Ken Washington, Ken Morrison, Ken Peterson, Bill Dyke, and Abe Schwartz, Chairman John Biekarck, Biekarcks Music House presided.

Area Firemen Vainly Fight Stubborn Rogertown Blaze

Firemen from Clarendon and North Warren fought a stubborn blaze Monday morning which ravaged a shop owned by Robert P. Ferry, of RD 1, Clarendon, east of the Route 6-Route 59 intersection.

An initial lack of water, shooting flames, heavy smoke and the harassment of shells and bullets exploding inside the structure, made the job tough for 18 volunteers from Clarendon and 10 from North Warren, the latter group directed by Fire Chief Doug Ward.

Clarendon Fire Chief Leonard Falbriski said the call came in at 9:30 a.m. when a neighbor of Ferry's reported a truck on fire. Arriving at the scene, Falbriski said they found the shop blazing in the frame portion of the building which house some fine equipment.

Two 500-gallon boosters were put into action to cool the Ferry house, located in front of the shop. Paint had started to run on the house, the chief said, extreme heat had broken one window.

Clarendon immediately requested mutual aid assistance, attempting first to contact Pleasant Township for its tanker. Upon learning the tanker was broken down, Warren borough contacted North Warren who sent its pumper a crew.

Clarendon then laid 1,200 feet of hose to Morrison Run with water being supplied from that source until the fire was out at 12:25 p.m.

Ferry, whose shop is set up for gun repair and reloading ammunition, was working at a lathe in a far corner of the building when the fire erupted. He was able to crawl out but suffered second degree burns of the arm, head and leg. He was treated and released at Warren General Hospital where he was taken by a neighbor and returned to the scene before firemen left.

Falbriski said there was ammunition and gunpowder in the shop which exploded almost continuously. One louder explosion came when an acetylene tank blew.

A TMO photographer was pressed into service to drive one Clarendon fireman back to the village to get the emergency truck. Firefighters were feeling the effect of the heat and smoke and required oxygen, Falbriski said.

Sheffield Volunteer Fire department was standing by in case more help was needed. Cause of the blaze is still under investigation and damage was partially covered by insurance.

Two other homes in the area were not damaged in the conflagration.

'Poor' Campsite Demolished; Abernathy Gets 20 Days in Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Poor People's Campaign mule train made a wide sweep through muggy Washington Tuesday, but those in the wagons were discouraged from trying to follow their leader, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, to jail.

Abernathy was sentenced earlier to 20 days imprisonment but other campaign leaders remained free.

Tension in the city, where temperatures have been peaking in the 90s, still was evident but as dusk approached, officials decided against repeating the night hours curfew they imposed Monday when sporadic violence flared in Negro sections.

Mayor Walter E. Washington announced that "if any emergency should arise requiring a curfew it will be instituted."

These were the day's main developments: —Abernathy, maintaining his arrest Monday on Capitol Hill cut short an attempt to "get food for hungry people in this richest and most affluent society," was sentenced to 20 days in jail after pleading no contest to a charge of unlawful assembly on the Capitol grounds.

A demolition crew of 400 worked at top speed to tear down and cart away Resurrection City, the plywood shantytown the demonstrators were evicted from Monday, a day after their occupancy permit had expired.

The mule train of the Poor People's Campaign entered Washington for the first time, nearly precipitating mass arrests when it attempted to approach the Capitol.

Police allowed the 13-wagon caravan of creaking farm wagons, each pulled by two mules in worn harness, to ride through the city but ordered a halt when

5 Helicopters Crash in Saigon; 35 Are Killed

SAIGON (AP) — An intensified drive to thwart a new enemy threat against Saigon resulted in a series of five helicopter crashes that killed 19 American and 16 Thai troops, the U.S. Command reported Tuesday.

The heaviest toll came early Tuesday when two troop-carrying choppers collided and exploded in bad weather and the blast downed another helicopter flying nearby. All 12 American crewmen and 16 Thai infantrymen aboard the three craft were killed.

Military spokesmen said the triple air disaster occurred as an armada of U.S. Army helicopters was lifting Thai troops on a mission 16 miles southwest of Saigon. They were flying through bad weather, with cloud formations down to 200-300 feet and visibility only half a mile.

Another helicopter was shot down by enemy ground fire 19 miles southwest of Saigon Monday while searching for enemy troop positions. Both crewmen were killed.

The fifth chopper went down Monday afternoon in the Nha Be River, nine miles southeast of Saigon. Five Army men were killed, including the pilot, a battalion commander and his executive officer. This crash was listed as an accident.

Helicopter activity has intensified in recent days as allied forces have tried to tighten a ring around Saigon against a possibly imminent attack. Intelligence sources have indicated the enemy is planning a new attack for sometime between now and early July.

In ground sweeps around the capital by nearly 15,000 allied soldiers, the U.S. Command reported Tuesday 107 enemy killed by American troops.

The heaviest clash began Monday 19 miles southwest of the city when troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division were moving toward the reconnaissance helicopter downed by enemy fire. The infantrymen ran into an enemy force in two bunkers.

More troops and helicopters were called in and the fighting wore on until late Monday night. A sweep of the battlefield Tuesday found 46 enemy bodies and 19 weapons, headquarters said. Five U.S. soldiers were reported killed and nine wounded.

In another battle 16 miles outside the capital, 9th Division troops killed 41 Viet Cong, many of whom were equipped with new pith helmets and Chinese Communist weapons. Four U.S. soldiers were reported killed.

Headquarters said another 20 enemy were killed Monday by U.S. Air Force tactical fighters as they were spotted moving some 13 miles northwest of Saigon.

While the ground sweeps went on around Saigon, U.S. B52 bombers kept up their massive campaign to knock out enemy forces and supplies along approaches to the city. The bombers flew 10 missions Monday and early Tuesday.

Military Construction Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate turned back repeated efforts Tuesday to slash the $1.8-billion military construction authorization bill and passed it 78 to 3.

However, the bill is about $29 million less than the House approved for hundreds of military projects around the world. If the House does not accept the Senate figure the difference will have to be worked out by a joint conference committee.

Actual funds for the items in the bill could be cut below the authorization figures, when Congress considers separate legislation later.

The three who voted against passage of the bill were Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Caryl Chessman, D-Wis., and Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

Rejected amendments to cut back the authorizations were offered by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa. They were turned back by solid margins on five votes.

The series of votes on the amendments and passage of the bill came as somewhat of an anticlimax to Monday's rejection of an effort to delay authorizing $227.3 million to acquire sites and start work on the Sentinel Anti-Ballistic Missile program.

This line of defense is designed as a "thin" shield against possible Red Chinese attack. The Senate rejected 52 to 34 a move to delay the project and turned back 72 to 12 a move to strike it completely out of the bill.

Early Canadian Returns Indicate Close Victory

TORONTO (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Liberal party suffered surprise losses in Newfoundland, but early returns in Tuesday's election indicated Liberal gains in Ontario and a possible close victory over the Conservatives.

In an upset the Conservatives, led by Robert Stanfield, took five of the seven parliamentary seats previously held by the Liberals in Newfoundland.

The Liberals appeared to be maintaining their usual strength in Quebec and they picked up several seats in Ontario. These are the most populous provinces.

Trudeau was re-elected in his own district in Montreal and Stanfield was re-elected in Halifax.

Newspapers across the country had predicted the Liberals would win a clear majority of the 264 seats in Parliament but chances for this seemed doubtful midway in the counting of votes. It appeared more likely there would be another minority government.

By 9:15 p.m. (EDT) the Liberals had elected 60 members and the Conservatives 24, while the Liberals were leading in 50 other districts and the Conservatives in 20.

Dalton Camp, Conservative party national president, was defeated in Toronto by a Liberal candidate, newcomer Robert Kaplan.

What had been a hard-fought but quiet political campaign wound up in a bloody melee Monday night when the 48-year-old prime minister appeared on the reviewing stand at a Montreal parade by the St. Jean Baptiste Society.

Before the streets were cleared 135 persons had been hospitalized and 290 arrested. The disorders began as an anti-Trudeau demonstration by Quebec separatists and turned into a wild clash in which bottles and other missiles were hurled.

Pittsburgh Bridge to Nowhere Becomes Just Another Bridge

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh's monument to human fallibility becomes just another bridge Wednesday.

To the state Highways Department, it's the Fort Duquesne Bridge.

But to Pittsburghers it's the Bridge to Nowhere, a graceful arch of concrete and steel soaring across the Allegheny River to... well... nowhere.

It just stops.

This is it stopped until the Highways Department finally decided where they wanted it to go.

On Wednesday local and highway officials are to be there as a crane swings into position a bright orange, 155-foot girder making the bridge to an expressway under construction on the city's North Side.

There's to be fireworks, speech-making, picture-taking — all the trappings of an historic occasion.

But it's the end of an era to the legions of Steel City residents who impressed out-of-towners by pointing out the bridge that just stopped and to workers who drove past on the

Dr. Norman Yoder Is Now Working In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Norman Yoder has a job with the Cleveland Society for the Blind.

Yoder, who was fired as Pennsylvania commissioner for the blind over a false story that six college students had been blinded by the sun while on LSD, is to start the new job July 15.

Society Director Cleo Dolan said Yoder, 53, will be director in charge of staff development.

Yoder grew up in Cleveland and graduated from nearby Baldwin-Wallace College.

Dolan said Tuesday he regards Yoder as "one of the top professionals in the field of blindness."

State Asked to Recognize 'Limited' Right to Strike

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Governor's Commission to Re-examine the Public Employee Law of Pennsylvania, after a month's study, recommended Tuesday that the state recognize a public employee's "limited" right to strike.

The recommendation was one of several key provisions of a proposed new Public Employees Act suggested to replace the state's 21-year old statute, which forbids strikes and fails to provide for collective bargaining.

4-Day Work Week Office Workers Goal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A four-day work week is the future goal of the office workers union, according to their union head.

Howard Coughlin, national president of the Office and Professional Employees International Union said the four-day work week will be the union's goal "within a reasonable length of time after the Vietnam war."

"It will be essential to drastically cut the work week or face the specter of high unemployment," Coughlin told a news conference Monday.

He said too much free time would not be a problem. People could go back to school, take up cultural pursuits and have increased recreation time, he said.

Family Service Adds Summer Caseworker to Staff

Family Service and Children's Aid Society of Warren County has announced the addition of a summer caseworker to its staff.

Miss Frances Weber is one of approximately 70 students selected by the Careers in Social Work Program at the Health and Welfare Association of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, in conjunction with some 40 participating agencies in 10 western Pennsylvania counties.

As a temporary staff member, Miss Weber will have the opportunity to explore social work as a possible career by observing and taking part in the day to day activities of the agency. She will also be given the chance to make a valuable contribution to agency services as an aide to the professional social work staff. The appointment is part of the agency's policy of cooperating in social work education.

MISS FRANCES WEBER

Miss Weber is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Weber, of 1000 Sullivan dr., West Homestead, Pa. She recently completed her junior year at Davis-Elkins College, Elkins, W. Va., where she is majoring in sociology. As a high school student she worked as a volunteer in the office of Hope Corps, Pittsburgh, an organization providing recreational and social activities for retarded children in the Pittsburgh area.

During the past winter, Miss Weber was a volunteer child care worker in a child care center for the mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed children of Elkins.

She will continue her education at Davis-Elkins College this fall.

Farm Operations At State Hospitals To Continue

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer said Tuesday that farm operations at state mental hospitals will continue through July 1, 1969 and beyond, contrary to some reports.

Members of the General Assembly and some citizens have expressed concern that the farms at the various hospitals would cease operations by the first of the year, the governor said in a statement.

"The facts are that the administration is presently studying farm operations at these institutions," Shafer said. "Until these studies are completed, I have directed Secretary of Welfare Dr. Thomas W. Georges, Jr., to instruct all hospital administrators to maintain their farm operations at the current levels."

Dr. Georges said no decision on the continuation of farm operations will be reached prior to July 1, 1969, when the studies are due to be completed.

Becoming A Millionaire Isn't What It Used To Be

(c) N. Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Becoming a millionaire isn't what it used to be. The Federal Reserve Board said there were 40,000 in 1958 and 100,000 seven years later. The inflation of the past three years may have doubled or tripled the number.

Nevertheless, a senior officer of one of New York's largest banks startled his hearers the other day when he announced quite casually that all young officers joining the institution today would be millionaires by the time they retired. His calculation didn't involve any crystal gazing. It involved the power of compound interest and the record of recent heads-up investment performance.

One of the most frequently cited financial rules of thumb is the rule of 72. This says that money will double in the number of years that 72 is divided by the rate of compound interest. Thus, if someone were to put $1,000 in a savings account paying 4 per cent interest, he would have $2,000 18 years later. If the bank raised the interest rate to 5 per cent, the goal would be reached in a little over 14 years.

No wonder he's millionare, however, thinks in terms of 4 per cent and 5 per cent. If savings can't earn 15 per cent or better, he is not interested in the investment.

Being Struck by Lightning Is Two-Way Street to Heaven

NEW YORK (AP) — Being struck by lightning puts you on one of "the few two-way streets to heaven," a famous physician says.

It's a two-way street because more people apparently recover from lightning bolts than are killed, and even seemingly dead victims might often be resuscitated, says Dr. Helen B. Taussig of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

"If you are with persons who have been struck by lightning, remember that those who are stunned but alive are not the ones who most urgently need help," she says.

"Such persons will probably soon recover. It is the man who is 'dead' who needs help. Artificial respiration may get him breathing again and his heart going again, Dr. Taussig writes in the June issue of the Annals of Internal Medicine.

"When the heart starts," she adds, "continue artificial respiration until you get the man to the nearest hospital."

"He has traveled on one of the few two-way streets to heaven. Although his trip to heaven was fantastically short, and his trip back may take days or weeks, he may yet return to live and, what is more, the chances are that he will be uninjured by the trip."

Dr. Taussig, famed among other things for initiating "blue baby" heart surgery with the late Dr. Alfred Blalock, reviewed the medical literature on "death" from lightning after instances in which friends had been struck.

Most of the medical reports concern spontaneous recovery, "and in strikingly few reports was any effort made to resuscitate the person who had been killed," she comments.

"Respect a severe thunder storm," Dr. Taussig advises. "Don't take refuge under a tree; cast aside your fishing rod, your golf clubs, and even your umbrella. Don't run, don't telephone, and don't go swimming."

Politically-Minded Women Will Be Walking Billboards

NEW YORK (AP) — A presidential campaign ago, an oversized button, a breast banner or a paper hat was enough for a candidate wishing to use fashions for his message.

But this year, women are expected to be walking billboards, advertising their political allegiances from the bands of their hats to the bows on their toes.

As candidates have entered the arena—or withdrawn—various aspects of the fashion industry have frantically begun—or stopped—production of head scarves, fabrics by the yard, aprons for kaffee klatchers, middie-banded hostess gowns and mini-skirted doorbell ringing dresses, as well as an assortment of jewelry including rings, pins, charm bracelets, cuff links and earrings and, for men, hats, blazers and neckties.

All bear either the insignia, initials or portraits of the man favored for the highest national office.

Some are figments of enterprising merchandisers. A lingerie manufacturer who had produced a line of white night gowns with the initials of candidates across the fronts had to withdraw his LBJ number and hastily substitute an HHH version.

A tie manufacturer is playing it safer by settling for just two insignia, elephants and donkeys.

"To keep his name before the public in every way," as pop art collector Mrs. Robert C. Scull put it, boosters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy recently opened a boutique in New York called "McCarthy's Mart."

Among the McCarthys are $100 campaign buttons for evening wear studded with diamonds, rubies, and sapphires, as well as recorded poetry. The profit from sales is a side benefit to the publicity, the No. 1 reason for campaign fashions.

Not yet ready to come off the Bunsen burner is a boutique in Washington, D.C., for Hubert H. Humphrey to be called "The Pharmacy" because the vice president almost wound up filling prescriptions in a drug store.

The ship will offer bows, blouses, scarves, shifts, skirts, and chapeaux along with lunch to the shoppers.

In nonpartisan fashion, enterprising Frankie Welch opened the Campaign Flying Boutique, so-called because she delivers her products at almost a moment's notice by air freight. At her 22-year-old house in Alexandria, Va., she keeps one room for Republican browsers and still another for the Democrats.

After having designed an Hline hostess dress for female supporters attending the announcement of Humphrey's candidacy, Miss Welch was immediately assigned to create an official dress for the National Republican Convention.

For women who prefer to whip up their own political furor, she has styled a fresh-as-a-daisy printed fabric (available by the yard) for the Republicans. To go along with these home created styles are daisy-decorated pocket buckets (not unlike sand buckets) "in which ladies can carry lemonade while ringing doorbells," explains Miss Welch.

By brochure women supporters of Richard M. Nixon have been offered a $20 dactron and cotton hostess dress of red and blue with a Nixon thunderbolt insignia emblazoned across the front.

The Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller camp favors paper fashions because hemlines may be adjusted with scissors to suit a lady's fashion fancy or her age, a spokesman explained. Along with dresses bearing the oversized portrait of the New York governor, the headquarters has placed a sizable order for Rockefeller paper hats and blazers for men.

Many historically significant pacts are known as the "Treaty of Paris" or the "Peace of Paris," after being negotiated in that city.

SORRY LOOKING

While Warren's clean-up campaign never saw reality, it doesn't mean that individuals and organizations cannot whip out the paint brush and go to work themselves. Some weeks ago we ran a photo of some unsightly looking signs. Here are a couple more that decorate our highways and streets. The only changes we have seen are for the worst.

Age Discrimination Act

Uncle Sam is getting tough with companies that discriminate against prospective employees because of age. A federal law is now in effect that prohibits arbitrary age-based rejections or restrictions by employers, employment agencies and labor unions.

The law, called the Age Discrimination Act of 1967, came about as a result of a survey conducted by the Labor Department for Congress in 1965. The survey showed that "hundreds of thousands" of Americans between the ages of 40 and 65 were out of work because management felt they were over the hill.

The report pointed out that many of these people do find other jobs but not without long and hard searching. And their job choices are narrow and many of them must accept lower wages to get jobs, the survey found.

Principal targets of the Labor Department right now are companies that maintain a policy of never hiring anyone over 45. The law has singled out other targets, too. Last week the law applied to companies that have 50 or more employees. Starting June 30 it applies to those companies with 25 or more.

Here are some of the major provisions of the new law:

It is illegal for a company to fire or refuse to hire an individual solely because of age.

Employment agencies are not allowed to refuse to refer applicants to job openings because of age.

In most cases want ads are not allowed to specify age preferences.

Labor unions may not exclude or expel individuals from membership on the basis of age.

Rules on Appliances

When you see a bargain priced appliance offered "as is," how can you tell whether or not it's likely to fall apart just after you got it home? What do retailers mean when they claim they are selling items at "wholesale" prices? Is a "free home trial" of a major appliance really free?

These are some of the questions you, the consumer, have been raising as you venture into today's increasingly complex appliance marketplace. In response here is a short list of money and nerve-saving rules on appliances:

+ If you buy an appliance "as is," you are taking a gamble and it's strictly your problem if it breaks down later. However, some dealers will at times back an "as is" item with a guarantee. If so, get the guarantee in writing.

+ If you're tempted by a bargain appliance advertised as "reconditioned" or "rebuilt," the key question to ask is by whom?

+ In comparing prices of appliances, check such aspects as volume of a refrigerator freezer; dimensions of a TV screen; the capacity (in pounds) of a washing machine or dryer; the BTU capacity (cooling capacity) of an air conditioner; whether the purchase price includes delivery, installation, warranty and service.

+ If you are buying an appliance on time, compare total finance charges offered by each dealer — not just monthly payments.

+ As an indicator of safety, look for the Underwriters' Laboratories Seal on electrical appliances, the Blue Star Seal of the American Gas Association Laboratory on gas appliances, or the seal of approval by major consumer-oriented magazines.

+ Make sure, before you buy an electrical appliance, that your house is adequately wired to accommodate it and that it will fit in the space you have designated for it.

+ Don't try to save money by "do it yourself" installation or repairs; this can void your warranty. Also pay attention to instruction booklets. A dealer can't be held responsible for repairing a refrigerator which you have defrosted with an ice pick.

+ In buying an air conditioner, get professional advice on the correct cooling capacity for the space it is supposed to cool. An oversized air conditioner can be almost as uneconomical as an undersized one.

+ Claims by appliance retailers of "wholesale" prices, warns the Better Business Bureau, "are usually whole sale bunk." Common sense says that a retailer just couldn't stay in business by selling at wholesale prices. Real bargains in certain appliances frequently are available during the period in which new yearly models are being introduced. However, if you buy these older models, make sure the guarantee still applies. And, as with any guarantee, find out exactly what it does and does not cover.

+ If your appliance develops problems after the warranty runs out, deal only with service agencies authorized by the manufacturer or with a reputable local service firm.

+ If a "free home trial" is offered, make sure that you have no obligation to buy. Watch out for the unscrupulous dealer who may attempt to get you to sign a purchase contract which you are led to believe is simply a receipt for the "free home trial."

Finally, if you discover you have bought a lemon or if a dealer fails to live up to a warranty or service contract, gather the facts to support your complaint, and complain — loudly! You'll help not only yourself but also every reliable appliance manufacturer and dealer, and all the rest of us in the market for appliances today.

GOP Gift For Losing Elections

(C) N.Y. News Times Service
NEW YORK — At the art of losing elections, few political organizations in the world can match the Republican party. They have lost seven of the last nine presidential races, and while the election of 1968 should be almost impossible for them to throw away, they might just manage it.

If they do stagger and blunder to defeat this time, it will not be possible for them to say they were unlucky or couldn't see the danger signals. The withdrawal of President Johnson, the death of Robert Kennedy, the continuation of an unpopular war in Vietnam, and the fierce divisions within the Democratic party have all worked in their favor.

The popularity polls have been running clearly and consistently against their man. They show Vice President Humphrey beating Nixon, and Gov. Rockefeller of New York beating Humphrey. The latest Gallup poll also shows Sen. Eugene McCarthy running ahead of Nixon, and the Gallup poll on the conduct of the war is clearly in favor of another bombing pause, in all of North Vietnam and in favor of bringing American troops home as the South Vietnamese are trained to replace them.

Yet the more the polls indicate the weakness of both Nixon and his war policies, the stronger he seems to get with the Republicans who will pick the party's nominee at Miami Beach in August.

Republican voters, of course, tell Mr. Gallup that they would prefer to have Nixon handling the war than Humphrey, but when Gallup asked them if they would approve turning the war over gradually to the South Vietnamese and bringing American troops home in 100,000 lots as soon as each 100,000 South Vietnamese took over, 75 per cent of the Republicans said they would approve. This was even higher than the national average of all voters, 71 per cent of whom approved a staged withdrawal from the war.

It may be, of course, that Nixon is beginning to pay attention to this sentiment. He certainly did not persuade Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, the most consistent Republican dove in the Senate, to support Nixon by repeating in private to Hatfield what Nixon has said about the war in public.

On the record, however, Nixon has actually managed to reverse the policy Gen. Eisenhower found so effective in promising to disengage American power from the Korean war. In the campaign of 1952, which started the only Republican era of the last 36 years, Eisenhower said: "There is no sense in the United Nations, with America bearing the brunt of things, being constantly compelled to man those Korean front lines. We do not want Asia to feel that the white man of the West is his enemy."

What Eisenhower was saying then is much closer to what Sen. McCarthy is saying now than what Nixon is saying: "If we cannot win the war, at least let us not shed so much of our blood in that region," Gen. Eisenhower argued. "We must avoid the kind of bungling that led us into Korea and could lead us into others. The young farm boys must stay on their farms; the students must stay in school."

Nixon, however, is still sticking on the hard line. He is arguing for a military victory and against reductions in defense spending, and he may be right, but there is no evidence that American public opinion favors these themes, or that Nixon could preside over a peaceful era by following them.

Beyond that, there is another point the Republicans may have to consider. The nomination of Nixon could help bring about a cease-fire in Vietnam but for an odd reason. There is no man in American political life the Russians distrust more than Nixon. If he were nominated, it is certainly not beyond the realm of possibility that they would really use all their influence on North Vietnam to bring about a cease-fire before the election. But that would merely enable the Democrats to go to the polls saying the fighting was over, and thus enhance their chances of keeping the Republicans out of power for another four years.

If the job of the next President of the United States is to get peace, and find the momentous sums of money needed to deal with the menace of the poor at home and abroad, this is likely to be done only by a substantial reduction in military expenditures, which in turn depends on greatly improved relations with the Soviet Union. Is Nixon the best man to win the election? To get peace? To negotiate a detente with Moscow? Maybe these are not the right questions, but if they are, the Republicans could be going in the wrong direction.

MASON DENISON

Pennsy Love-in

HARRISBURG — Founder William Penn foresaw his Pennsylvania as "The Peaceable Kingdom," where the lion would lie down (more or less) with the lamb.

In many respects it has worked out that way. There have been ruddy days within Penn's Woods. It is true — Indians, Valley Forge, Gettysburg, the Paxton Boys, the Mollie Maguires, Republicans, Whigs, Democrats, etc. — but there hasn't been a major battle within the Keystone State in over a century.

Even in contemporary politics there seems to be some hope that Founder Penn's vision may become a reality — depending of course upon how you look at it.

For example, the other day in a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives, Democratic Minority Floor Leader

Herbert Fineman vowed that his party is indeed ready to sit down with administration Republican lawmakers and — of all things — help provide the votes necessary to enact the Republican Shafter legislative program!

That's just about the political equivalent of the lions and lambs holding a love-in.

The anti-administration Democratic leader pointed to 77 specific legislative measures Governor Shafter had proposed in speeches before the Legislature, none of which as the flat record shows, have been enacted into law.

Quoth he in his floor chit-chat:

"I would like to say that this is a rare day indeed. For today we have a Democratic party asking for a chance to enact many key parts of a Republican program; a program that the Republican Party seems unwilling or unable to embrace. If we are to adhere to the proposed schedule to adjourn, then there is no longer any time for delay or procrastination. This is a call for action — for action in the best bipartisan manner and in the best interests of Pennsylvania."

Of course, the Fineman speech was not all that peaceful. Of the 77 specific proposals the Governor has outlined, the Democratic Floor Leader charged that 15 had never even been submitted in bill form (A check of the record shows him to be quite correct.)

He said the first of Mr. Shafter's promises for which no bill has been submitted was an extension of Civil Service. Other measures promised in the first State of the Commonwealth message (January 24, 1967) for which no bills have been introduced, a la Fineman, are establishment of the Department of Transportation and "comprehensive planning to improve local health services at the state and local level."

Other proposals yet to be turned into legislation are in the fields of conservation, transportation, the urban crisis and one that would "combat large scale gambling, loan sharking and labor racketeering and an increase in the penalties for professional and organized criminals."

Of the remaining proposals, which have been produced in the form of bills, Mr. Fineman noted that eight were on the House Calendar, 15 in House committees, four in conference committees, five on the Senate Calendar and 30 in Senate committees. Of the 30 in the final category, he found little hope of enactment. Included were three air pollution measures that passed the House unanimously and such (widely-publicized) plans as "Penn-Sure" and a Department of Public Safety.

Mr. Fineman charged that if no attempt is made to enact the bill before the Legislature adjourns, then "the Governor and his party must be indicted on the charge of wanton insincerity — on the charge that the Governor has used this House as a back-drop for public relations extravaganzas and our time in order to project a false image to the people of Pennsylvania."

If he is right — and his interestingly specific charges about the 77 unfulfilled promises went unchallenged — then the people of Pennsylvania seemingly would have a right to ask: "What happened to the Shafter legislative program?"

Clamored for Violence

WASHINGTON — To a large extent, the Resurrection City rebellion was encouraged by scripture-quoting, psalm-singing Hosea Williams, the direct action leader, who had been clamoring for violence from the beginning. Before his demonstrators swarmed into the agriculture department for their first confrontation with police, they huddled with Williams for last-minute instructions. Federal authorities ordered restraint.

They also ordered restraint two years earlier when the FBI linked Williams with an auto-theft ring. The Justice Department sent three attorneys to Atlanta to make sure the case was handled delicately.

Perhaps this persuaded him that he could thumb his nose at the law with impunity. We reported as early as April 22, for instance, that Williams was urging the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to overturn the late Dr. Martin Luther King's nonviolent policy.

On June 3, reporters heard Williams exhort his followers at Resurrection City: "The picnic is over. We are coming out of these shacks. Police will have a chance to use their billy clubs."

The same Hosea Williams was caught in 1966 with the keys to a stolen car in his possession. He swore that he had no idea the car was stolen. But the confessed thief, Harold Andrews, told the FBI a different story.

He claimed he had made a deal with a middle man, named Morris Finley, to deliver 17 stolen cars complete with false registration papers to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Williams was in charge of auto purchases for the organization's voter registration drive. As it happened, Andrews produced only four cars, which he stole from auto agencies at Washington National Airport, Newark, N. J., Daytona Beach, Fla., and Atlanta. He equipped these with stolen license plates, forged registration cards and phony bills of sale.

He swore to the FBI that he sold the hot cars for only a fraction of the amounts shown on the bills of sale. Williams asked him to pad the bills of sale, Andrews said, to cover shortages in the SCLC books.

For several weeks, Andrews cooperated with the FBI in making a case against Williams and Finley. The FBI monitored phone calls, for example, between Andrews and Finley. Williams' name was prominently mentioned in the conversations.

When the case was presented to the Grand Jury the Justice Department took it out of the hands of the local U.S. attorney and sent three special attorneys to Atlanta. The Grand Jury indicted Andrews and Finley, completely ignored Hosea Williams.

U. S. Attorney Charles Goodson said the Justice Department had never previously intervened in a stolen-car case during his tenure in Atlanta. Andrews' attorney, William O'Kelley, who spent two years in the U.S. Attorney's office, said he had handled every stolen-car prosecution during the 1959-61 period.

"The Justice Department," he told us, "didn't attempt to advise me in a single case, including one that involved 100 cars from all over the United States and Mexico."

At the trial, Andrews took the witness stand in his own defense and repeated under oath his charge that Williams had made the deal for the stolen cars. Andrews also told the jury that the special Justice Department prosecutors "on three different occasions" had tried to persuade him not to testify.

"They said it might cause a revolution in this country if these high officials in SCLC were arrested," he declared from the stand.

Judge Sidney O. Smith refused to accept evidence that might have implicated Williams. The trial was not concerned, the judge said, with the decision about who should have been prosecuted.

"The decision disturbs me," he said, "but it's not my problem. Whoever made the decision will have to live with it."

A Justice Department spokesman told us that there was insufficient evidence to prosecute Williams. The trial attorney, Allen Chancey of Goodson's office, agreed.

"The case against Hosea Williams," Chancey told us, "depended entirely upon the testimony of a convicted car thief."

Others believe that a jury, not the Justice Department, should have made this judgment. Note: Both Andrews and Finley were convicted.

A showdown as to whether the 700,000-mile network of pipeline crisscrossing the USA will be carefully inspected comes up in the House of Representatives today (June 26). Upon the outcome will depend whether or not more pipeline explosions will endanger nearby homes.

The lobbyists have been working overtime to kill the tougher Senate version of the Pipeline Safety Bill, and have succeeded in the House Commerce Committee. Recently they have been getting local utility companies to pressure their congressmen. They also have Reps. James Brophy, Republican, and Horace Korenagay, Democrat, both of North Carolina, as their spokesmen.

A drive will be made on the House floor by Reps. John Moss, Calif., John Dingell, Mich., Brock Adams, Wash., Joseph Viorito, Pa., and Richard Ottinger, N. Y., all Democrats, to strengthen the weak House Bill.

They will call attention to a series of pipeline explosions, one of them occurring last week in Doniphan, Mo., killing six people. Another terrible tragedy occurred in a nursery outside Atlanta, Ga., where ten children were killed when a tractor cut into a pipeline which was not marked and was only eight inches below the surface.

Another pipeline tragedy occurred near Co-shooton, Ohio, when a gas line leak, in a valley, displaced so much oxygen in the air that cars stalled and people felt nausea. People said that if rain had not dispelled the gas, damage would have been incalculable.

Three and a half years ago this column reported the fact that no federal inspection system existed for checking on the vast network of pipelines buried under the United States. It has taken three years for the Congress to get around to passing a tough pipeline inspection bill. A showdown comes up in the House today.

Rep. Joseph Viorito, the vigorous Pennsylvania Democrat, recently sent a sharp letter to Robertson C. Cameron, managing director of the Pennsylvania Gas Association, who had defended the gas industry's pipeline safety record. Cameron contended that an average of only 44 persons were killed annually in gas-caused accidents.

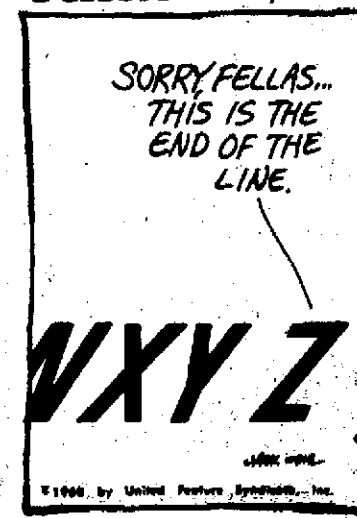

"I fail to see why you are seemingly pleased that there were ONLY 44 fatalities," wrote Viorito. "To one who values human life, this would seem to be 44 too many."

He added that Cameron also had neglected to point out that every year there was an average of 1,053 personal injuries from gas explosions and 1,990 incidents of property damage.

Thousands Of Tropical Fish Killed by Icy Tide

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An icy underwater tide sucked from the depths of the Atlantic Ocean by Hurricane Brenda killed thousands of tropical fish along 70 miles of Florida coast, a marine biologist said Tuesday.

The fish—brightly-colored denizens of Gulf Stream reefs—were stunned by the chilling waters and their bloated bodies surfaced.

Lt. Ron Purdom of the Florida Board of Conservation said divers tried to swim 60 feet to the reefs but were stopped by temperatures dropping from 65 degrees at the surface to 43 degrees 30 feet down.

"Further down, naturally, temperatures were much lower," Purdom said.

Hundreds of pounds of fish—angelfish, trumpetfish, filefish, cardinal fish, triple tails and reef bass—were picked up at sea but winds kept the carcasses from washing onto beaches, Purdom said.

However, temperature readings in Palm Beach County showed the surf several miles west of the reef at 75 degrees, about 10 degrees below normal and slightly cool to Floridians. Miami had 84 degree surf.

Edwin A. Joyce Jr., assistant director of the Board of Conservation Marine Laboratory in St. Petersburg, said ichthyologists found no cause for the fish deaths, other than the cold waters which swept suddenly over the unnamed reefs from about Jupiter south to the Pompano Beach area on the Atlantic Coast.

The kills occurred more than a week ago but reports were disclosed Tuesday after studies at the marine lab of carcasses plucked from offshore waters and shipped across state to St. Petersburg.

Dr. Saul Broida, physical oceanographer for the Institute of Marine Sciences of the University of Miami, said the unseasonable westerly winds caused by Hurricane Brenda drove warm surface waters away from shore.

"Upwelling," the surge of cold water from more than one-quarter mile deep, is not uncommon when winds come from offshore, Broida and Joyce said.

Joyce said that the speed of the temperature drop was the main factor in killing the fish.

Briefly Speaking

MOSCOW (AP) — A 22-man Venezuelan mission headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Raul Nass began talks here this week to promote trade with the Soviet Union. The Latin Americans hope to sell farm and petrochemical products, minerals, etc., and the Russians hope to sell Venezuela machinery and equipment.

EAST LONDON, South Africa (AP) — A 162-carat diamond valued at about $120,000 has been found by miner Peter de Bruyn at Bellsbank in western Cape province.

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — A student group claims it has persuaded Danny the Red—Daniel Cohn-Bendit, 24, German leader of recent student uprisings at the Sorbonne in Paris—to stand for election as rector of Glasgow University next October. If elected, he would succeed Lord Reith, 79, a pioneer developer of the British Broadcasting Corp.

There are two Establishment candidates, Baroness Elliott, 65, and Lord MacLeod of Fumary, 60. The rectorship is largely honorary but requires speech-making at student assemblies.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — More than 500 shanty-town families were resettled this week in a new government housing project built by Argentine army personnel in the first step of a campaign to eradicate the Villa Miseria — Miseryville — slum belt around this capital of 7 million people.

AUCKLAND (AP) — Thirteen warships from the United States, Britain and Australia are due here by July 4 to join the New Zealand frigates Wake and Blackpool in air-sea anti-submarine maneuvers. The July-August exercise will concentrate on chasing the British Royal Navy's Sydney-based submarine Trumpet and the new Australian Oberon-class submarine Oxley, first of four ordered from British shipyards.

MONTREAL (AP) — Seventeen persons were rescued from ships at sea in 1967 by weather ships posted on the International Civil Air Organization's North Atlantic network, the ICAO announced. The ocean stationers gave emergency medical advice and aid and handled nine aeromedical and 334 maritime SOS signals.

Death Attributed To Cardiac Arrest
CORRY — The results of an autopsy on James Jackson, Phoenix Hotel, Corry, who died last week disclosed that death was due to cardiac arrest.

Accompanied by chaperones and Secret Service men, the couple, both 19, will fly here Saturday and return to New York following their appearances.

AWARDED $335,000 BY STATE

Camillo "Carmino" Calogero of Lynbrook, N.Y., looks on dejectedly with his daughter, Donna Maria, 4, and wife, Georgetta, as his former boss, Gino, owner of Gino's Pizzeria, makes a pizza pie for the family. Calogero's unhappiness stems from severe back and neck injuries, received in an auto accident last September, which prevent him from looking into the air, throwing pizzas into the air, and thus, from earning his living as a pizza maker. Deprived of his livelihood, Calogero was awarded $335,000 by a State Supreme Court jury.

United Steelworkers Plan Strike Vote July 22

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union plans to call a strike vote July 22, just nine days before its labor contract with the industry expires, it was learned Tuesday.

It will be the first strike vote among the nation's basic steelworkers. Previously, the power to call a strike rested with the union's Basic Industry Conference committee.

The Associated Press learned that the conference committee will meet July 15 to, in the words of a high union source, "initiate a strike action."

"We want to put the pressure on the companies for the best possible offer," the union source said.

USW President I. W. Abel, who campaigned on a promise to make the union more democratic, decided after the last contract to allow the rank and file to vote on whether to strike. There have been six steel strikes since World War II.

In another development in the contract talks in Pittsburgh, membership of a key negotiating committee was expanded to meet the demands of disgruntled local officials who threatened to walk out of the negotiations.

Three more members were named to the union side of the drafting committee for the U.S. Steel Corp. negotiations. They included Carl Roberts of Lorain, Ohio, one of the group that made public his dissatisfaction after the original committee was named Monday.

The others were William Petrisko of the Duquesne works and Andrew Toth of the Homestead works.

One union district director said the changes would probably make the committee more responsive to demands for increased fringe benefits, especially larger pensions.

"The young Turks who want nothing but a bigger pay check had captured the committee," said the union official. "The plants with older men are worried about retirement."

The intra-union squabble took place in the company-level talks. At the same time, the top labor-management team was believed to be meeting for the second day to talk about the money package. The site was secret, and no announcements of any progress were made.

State Income Tax Proves Lucrative

CHICAGO (AP) — Connecticut lawmakers won't talk about it. Florida and Washington won't permit it. Michigan is trying to get rid of it.

The subject is the state income tax which is rapidly becoming the favorite tune of legislative answers to the problem of paying the cost of living in the 1960s.

In 1967 state income tax collections totaled $6 billion, a jump of 16 per cent from 1966. Sales taxes remained the biggest source of revenue with $10.7 billion of the total $64.2 billion in state and local taxes derived from this source.

The sales tax jump was 8.4 per cent from 1966 and only Colorado and Oklahoma declined in sales tax revenue while Illinois, Nevada, Ohio and Wisconsin jumped more than 10 per cent and Rhode Island and Wyoming increased the sales tax take 20 per cent.

All forms of state and local taxes increased revenues in 1967 but none gained as much as income tax which 38 states collect from their residents.

An example of how lucrative this levy can be is in California where $1.6 billion was collected last year.

This sum dwarfs the $1.6 million raised by Wisconsin in 1911 when its legislature passed the first state income tax in the nation. The Wisconsin tariff has remained a constant 1 to 6 per cent of over-all earnings. In 1967, the state income tax brought $368 million into Wisconsin's treasury.

Forty states have corporation income taxes which generally range a bit higher than the personal levy. The manner of taxing personal income varies from state to state.

New Hampshire and Tennessee tax only the income from interest and dividends. Most of the states follow a graduated formula of taxing income and some have a flat rate for wage earners while others base the tax on the federal income tax rate.

Eisenhower-Nixon Appearances Not Political

HUTCHINSON, Minn. (AP) — In a national election year an Eisenhower-Nixon appearance is not rare, especially on a one-day campaign swing.

But June 30, the Eisenhower-Nixon tandem visiting here will not be political. The Eisenhower is David, grandson of the former President, the Nixon, Julie, is a daughter of the former vice president and her father Richard is a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

Julie and David, who have announced their engagement, will appear as honorary marshals of the 1968 Hutchinson Water Carnival. Accompanied by chaperones and Secret Service men, the couple, both 19, will fly here Saturday and return to New York following their appearances.

Attending Fire Control Meeting

Robert Ache, district forester District 14, Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, and Rodney Larson, assistant forest supervisor for Recreation and Fire Protection, Allegheny National Forest, are attending the 1968 meeting of the Northeastern Forest Fire Control Supervisors this week, near Harrisburg.

More than 150 representatives have assembled from 20 eastern states, from two Canadian provinces and the U.S. Forest Service are on hand.

Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters serves as host for this year's meeting.
E. F. McNamara is chief of the Department's Division of Forest
Protection, which planned it.
Conference theme is "People, Problems and Protection." The meeting includes formal sessions, equipment displays, an aerial tanker demonstration at the Gifford Pinchot State Park lake, and a field trip through the south central section of Pennsylvania.

Cooperating with preparations are the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and Pennsylvania
Game Commission.

The goals of the Northeastern Forest Fire Control Supervisors organization are to "stimulate and promote development and use of specialized forest fire equipment, better techniques in fire prevention, pre-suppression, suppression and improved training and safety methods to attain and maintain the overall two-fold objective: least number of fires and least damage per fire."

Hints From Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:

Got an outdoor carpet on your open patio, front porch, apartment balcony or anywhere the rain soaks it? What to do when it rains and that beautiful carpet gets soggy wet... isn't it a mess?

We have one on our front porch. It's the kind that looks like grass and is made of a synthetic material with a rubber backing. It holds water like a thirsty camel on the desert.

I can truly say that I love it like a pet. But when it rains, it's an oozy mess because the rubber backing holds the water so long and everybody who walks into the house brings in wet shoes and water. So this is what I do during rainy spells.

I save all my newspapers and put folded sections of 'em along the pathway to the front door. It's absolutely great! Even though one doesn't walk on it, that good ole paper which our sweet little boys throw on our porch each day, sure soaks up the water quickly. You'll be amazed.

If you gotta get some of the water up in a hurry, put sections down and WALK ON IT. Wow! The paper can be turned OVER and stepped on again. Soaks it up fast.

A far greater idea we got last month is:

If you are having company, put the sections of newspapers (spread OPEN this time) on top of the carpet BEFORE the rains come.

Before the last rain, we bought a sheet of plastic (less than a dollar) and NOW we spread this wonderful stuff over the carpet before the rain even starts. The plastic can be draped so that the accumulation of water will drain off at the proper place. Might try it. Not gonna cost you much.

Love,
Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Heavy outing flannel stitched loosely (seam side out) in the shape of a mitt is wonderful for dusting.

It can be treated with any kind of oil or polish to make easy-to-handle polishers. It's easy to make one, is inexpensive, and really picks up the dust.

Anne Rodenfels

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: I've almost solved my problem of sorting the white clothes from the colored clothes on wash day.

In my bathroom closet is a clothes basket for colored clothes. Near the bathtub is a large diaper pail for white clothes (including towels).

I've successfully trained my children to put dirty clothes where they belong.

My only problem NOW is training my husband!

A Daily Reader

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently after fishing, even though I had washed my hands thoroughly, they still had a fishy odor. I thought to myself — if antiseptic mouth wash will remove mouth odors, why not other odors?

So I poured a small amount on my hands, rubbed them a little, then rinsed with cold water.

Presto, no more fishy odor!

Sybel Rice

DEAR HELOISE:

My kitchen extension table always came apart when I pulled it away from the wall. So I took two small snap locks (like the ones on trunks) and put them on the underside of my table. Hooks on one half and the snaps on the other half.

Now I can pull my table out from the wall with ease without having to lean over it and stretching my arms to each side.

Mrs. Wm. Gerth

DEAR HELOISE:

When mailing packages, cover the address with clear nail polish. Keeps the address clear and readable, especially in wet weather.

Mrs. Jim McKinley

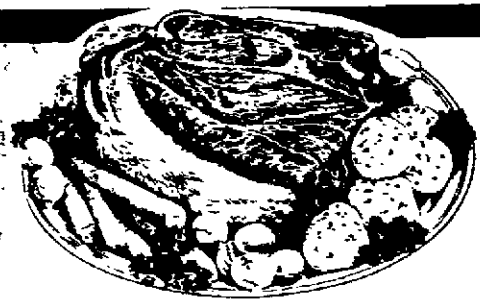

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: I am not a lover of housework and my house looks more like a disaster area than a show place. However, there is one spot of beauty which I call the focal point of the living room.

Everyday I polish my coffee table with furniture polish and it shines more beautifully each day.

My idea is that people dropping in will be so dazzled, that they won't see the rest of the room!

ELEGANT DINNER

Even the novice homemaker can delight her husband and special guests with a menu featuring plump, roasted Rock Cornish hens and velvety gravy, thanks to canned condensed cream of chicken soup and packaged herb-seasoned stuffing cubes.

Stuffed Cornish Game Hens 1st Culinary Accomplishment

It's your first anniversary... the first month, that is... and you want to mark the occasion with a special dinner to demonstrate your culinary skill. Something very elegant, like stuffed Rock Cornish hens, with a creamy rich mushroom-chicken sauce. Sound too difficult? Don't have time?

Once, perhaps, these were good reasons for not attempting such a time-consuming classic. Now, thanks to the use of convenience foods as cooking ingredients, many dishes requiring special know-how and hours of preparation time have become easy-dos.

Prepare stuffing for the hens by combining cubed seasoned stuffing mix with Mandarin orange slices, walnuts, and celery. While the birds roast, create a delicious, velvety gravy with canned condensed cream of chicken soup as a starter. This good soup, expertly seasoned and double rich, insures a perfect, smooth gravy with no long stirring, fuss, or worry over lumpy results. Sliced mushrooms, light cream, small amounts of crushed rosemary and Chablis give the gravy a truly elegant flavor.

At serving time, arrange bundles of green beans and broiled tomato halves around the hens on a platter.

CORNISH GAME HENS WITH ORANGE-HERB STUFFING
2 cups cubed seasoned stuffing, prepared
1 1/3 cup finely chopped celery
1/3 cup Mandarin oranges
1/3 cup chopped walnuts
2 Rock Cornish hens (about 1 1/2 pounds each)
Melted butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms (about 1/2 pound)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
1/3 cup light cream
2 tablespoons Chablis or other dry white wine
Combine stuffing, celery, oranges, and walnuts. Stuff hens; fasten with toothpicks or skewers. Place in shallow roasting pan; breast side up. Roast at 400 degrees F. for 1 hour 15 minutes or until done. Baste with melted butter. Meanwhile, in saucepan, brown mushrooms in butter with rosemary. Add soup, cream, and wine. Heat; stir now and then. Serve with hens and stuffing. Makes 2 servings.

Golden Potato Loaf
What is your favorite accompaniment to roast beef? Oven-roasted potatoes? Baked potatoes? For a new and delightfully different change serve a Golden Potato Loaf.

Grated raw potatoes combine with onion, seasonings and eggs to go into a loaf pan and bake with your roast. If you wish, add a hint of sharp cheese. During the baking period, baste the loaf from time-to-time with the drippings from the meat. The results will be a beautiful golden loaf with a crisp exterior encasing tender morsels of potato. To serve, invert on a warm platter and slice.

It's doubtful that you'll have leftovers, but if you do, saute the Potato Loaf slices in butter until golden brown on both sides. Makes for mighty tasty eating the second meal.

There is no end to the variety that can be brought to your meals with versatile potatoes. This low cost and nutritious vegetable takes just as well to a plain dress as it does to a glamorous one like Golden Potato Loaf.

GOLDEN POTATO LOAF
6 medium potatoes
2 to 3 medium onions
10 soda crackers
3 tablespoons milk
1/2 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
4 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Peel and grate potatoes and onions. Crumble crackers and soak in milk for a few minutes. Add crackers to grated potatoes, onions and cheese. Beat egg yolks slightly and add to potato mixture along with seasonings. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into potato mixture. Spoon into a well-greased pyrex loaf pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. Turn out onto a warm platter and invert. Slice to serve. Makes 8 servings.

HIGH RISE GARDEN PEAS

Angelo Mancuso, whose garden at the corner of Pine St. and Allegheny Ave. is a delight to see, and he is proud of his California variety garden peas that reach up to seven feet high, and bear 10 peas to a pod. He picks an average of 14 pounds of peas each day. He also grows such rarities as the Fava green bean, which grows with the beans upright. His garden now has ripe tomatoes, garlic, raspberries coming into bearing, corn, string beans, asparagus, onions and other crops. His fruit trees include apples, peaches, pears and plums. ANY MORE QUESTIONS?
LEBANON, Ky. (AP) — A local physician, who teaches a Sunday School class, asked one youngster what must be done to enter Heaven.

"Die," came the answer.

"True," said the doctor, "but what must we do before we die?"

"Well," the kid mused, "get sick and call for you, I guess."

Frosty Lemon Blueberry Pie

Frosty Lemon Blueberry pie is good news to warm weather cooks.

A simply-made dessert that needs no baking or cooking is really great news for the cook when vacation days come! None of us enjoys spending more time than absolutely necessary in the kitchen when everyone else is out of doors enjoying the weather and sports activities. So a dessert like this Frosty Lemon Blueberry Pie is a real treat for the cook as well as her guests.

It's a pie made with packaged foods that "bake" in your freezer. Easy? You bet! ... The crisp crust is a single layer of delicately-flavored lemon wafers arranged in the bottom and sides of a pie plate. The twin-layered filling begins with canned blueberry pie filling with a refreshing cap of lemon sherbet and freeze again until serving time. The combination of lemon and blueberry is really delicious and pretty, too, as you'll see when you cut into this frosty pie.

This is a pie a youngster could put together for you if you are caught short of time. And it's something that can be made well ahead of a party or dinner, ready for serving whenever you need it. It would be a grand midday treat for the summer crowd gathered on your porch or patio. Or, of course, it would be an impressive finale to a summer candle-lit supper.

FROSTY LEMON BLUEBERRY PIE
18-20 lemon flavored wafers
1 No. 2 can (2 cups) blueberry pie filling
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 pint lemon sherbet

IT DIDN'T LAST LONG

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK, June 25—When Manuel Ramos reported for his pre-fight physical examination in the Catskills last week, the Mexican heavyweight was wearing a blue windbreaker. In bold lettering on the front were those magical words, "Assistant Activities Director—Grossingers."

By the time Joe Frazier had completed his demolition job in Madison Square Garden last night, Ramos was beginning to look as harmless as an assistant activities director. In six action-packed minutes the heavy-handed Frazier had administered so much punishment to his foe that Ramos wisely surrendered, knocked out "At the end of the second round."

Perhaps it was a mismatch. The fight mob refused to buy it because The Garden was half empty. The gamblers downgraded it because they refused to take any bets on Frazier. To them he was a sure thing. Yet it was a whale of a brawl for the first two minutes as Ramos not only traded punches in a toe-to-toe slugfest but once jarred Frazier to his heels with a whistling right that barely missed landing on the button.

From that point on, however, it was all Frazier although the out-classed Ramos mixed willingly enough until the manifest futility of his efforts suddenly descended on him. The second round had actually ended when Ramos remembered that ancient Aztec principle: Discretion is the better part of valor.

This merely advanced the inevitable. Frazier's fiendish left hooks were disintegrating Ramos so thoroughly that the bout could not have lasted more than another minute or two anyway. If nothing else, this match proved once again what an exciting heavyweight Frazier can be. He never stops throwing punches and his pursuit is implacable. He is an oversized Henry Armstrong, battering ceaselessly.

Frazier has no job. He concentrates his firepower on the body with sufficient whacks to the whiskers to fire down a foe anytime he connects solidly. But he can be hit by a right although his superb physical condition and remarkable recuperative powers enable him to shake off such punches—thus far anyway.

Frazier's style is not in the classic tradition of a Jim Corbett or Gene Tunney. He's a mauler who hurts every time he hits just as Rocky Marciano once did, crumbling defenses merely by crashing punches on arms. Don't forget that the Brockton Blockbuster took decisions from better boxers by never giving them a moment's peace or room to operate. Frazier also may be described as a refined pier six brawler, not necessarily a contradiction in terms.

By knocking out Ramos the Busy Bee from Philadelphia strengthened his hold as a partial or five-state Heavyweight Champion. Unless Cassius Clay can escape from his private war with the Draft Board and can soon meet Frazier, he might find Joe too tough to take a few years from now.

It is my conviction, though, that the swift Clay would jab Frazier dizzy and prevent him from getting inside to wreak havoc. It's also my conviction that Cassius would be able to throw enough rights on that exposed chin to bring down the prize investment of the Cloverly Syndicate that keeps collecting stock dividends on the interregnum champion. Not everyone agrees with this theory, however.

"Frazier throws so many punches," said one expert, "and bulls in so much that Clay never would be able to hold him off."

That remains to be seen. The pity of it is that the fight fans are unlikely to see it. If Clay remains steadfast in his beliefs—and he now seems fanatical about them—he will go to jail. By the time he is sprung, it is likely that his fantastic speed will have deserted him. And Clay without that swiftness of movement is ordinary. Speed covered up flaws in his style and they will be exposed.

The Frazier-Ramos fight does not lend itself too readily to analysis mainly because the Mexican mixed so freely from the beginning. Ramos hooked well and showed a thunderous right-hand uppercut. For two blazing minutes he looked very good, a proper match. But the relentless Frazier never halted his ceaseless attack and even the solid right to his jaw gave him only momentary pause.

But then he kept smashing away with his left hook until he was beating a tattoo with it. He blasted in as many as three, four and five in succession, pinning Ramos in a corner and leaving him groggy at the end of the first round.

He was home free after that. In the second he sent the Mexican to his knees and Ramos became so wilted that his retaliatory punches lost power and direction. Down he went again just before the bell. Sitting on his haunches he made one prodigious gasp, as if struggling for breath. It was his last struggle of the night because he immediately indicated to Referee Arthur Mercante that he'd had enough.

Maybe Frazier didn't beat much but he did it so well that he gained new respect for his overpowering punching abilities.

STOLEN BASE, SAFE AT SECOND

Cleon Jones, New York Mets outfielder, shows the hustle that has put the Mets in the upper reaches for the Second Division for the first time. Jones is taking second base, beating the throw that Reds shortstop Woody Woodward is waiting to receive. Umpire Shag Crawford is on top of the play. The Reds won the game in extra innings.

GOLFING WITH Arnold Palmer

ACCELERATE STROKE ON SHORT PUTTS

Many of us tend to quit on short putts of, say, 6 to 8 feet. This is quite natural, I think. A soft stroke, we reason, will prevent any chance of going too far past the cup and leaving a long "comebacker." Also, we seem to think that such a short putt will hold its line within the width of the hole.

Not so! The golfer who eases up on short putts won't get many birdies, and he'll miss a lot of chances of successfully scrambling for pars.

These short putts, like all others, require a firm acceleration of clubhead into the ball (see illustration). Only by rhythmic acceleration will we keep the clubface properly square to our intended line. A firm stroke also will keep the putt on line. Condition yourself to a firm stroke by practicing these short putts.

Captain and Pfc Agree On Olympic Training

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A sprinter and a distance runner agreed Tuesday that training at high altitudes would be a necessity for competitors in the Olympic Games this fall at Mexico City.

The international games will be about 7,350 feet above sea level. Many of the United States squads, including the track teams, will train this summer and fall at South Lake Tahoe, Calif., at about that same altitude.

"Sprinters need the altitude training as much as distance men," commented speedster Mel Pender, Tracy Smith of the distance corps said, "I don't think anybody trained at sea level can run at Mexico City and hope to win."

Pender, an Army captain, and Smith, a private first class, are among the top athletes competing in the Los Angeles Coliseum on Saturday and Sunday in the men's track and field Olympic trials.

Head coach Payton Jordan said the first three finalists in each event will be invited automatically to the high altitude training and up to 10 in each event may be invited. The actual number would appear to be somewhere between.

Also, special invitations will be issued such athletes as Jim Ryan and Richmond Flowers who through illness or injury weren't able to compete in the trials.

Softball Doubleheader Will Feature Erie Team

Warren area softball fans are in for a real treat this coming Friday when the powerful Security Peoples nine of Erie comes to town for a doubleheader.

The twinbill will get underway with the first game scheduled at 7:30 p.m. and the nightcap slated to start at 9:00 p.m.

The Security sluggers are currently on a nine-game winning streak and the Bank record is 12-2 overall. Their only two losses have been to last year's Ohio state AA champs, Harley Davidson, and to Big Eight Ohio contender Marion.

The Bankers shut out the Marion team last weekend in Erie in three of the four games played.

Security Peoples is the host team for the greatest softball event ever to be played in these parts, the Central Atlantic Regional AA Men's softball championships.

The affair will be held in Erie over the Labor Day weekend, and Warren area fans traveling to Erie to see the event will see the champions from six different states and Metropolitan areas vying for the right to represent the region in the National Tournament in late September in Florida.

Jim Adamczyk, Bob Kenny and Carl Zappitelli are the big three of the ace Banker hurling staff.

Adamczyk has an earned run average of less than one a game and has struck out 76 batters in compiling a 5-0 mark thus far. Kenny is 4-1, including a no-hitter and one-hitter. The blazing fastballer has struck out 57 in his five starts.

Veteran Zappitelli has won three and lost one. Three of his outings included three-hit performances.

The Banker batting attack has been led by powerhitting Lefty Gustavson, who has slammed three homers and is batting around the .550 mark.

Security will use either Dick Baron or Jim Light behind the plate, the veteran Buzz Brandon at first, speedy Walt Litz at second, the brilliant Doug Elwell at shortstop and Harvey Martin and newcomer Bobby Jez will alternate at the third base position.

The veteran Bill Hill is the club manager.

Frazier Wants Clay or Ellis; Will Probably Fight Quarry

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier celebrated his 31st straight pro victory Tuesday while boxing promoters talked of a possible September title defense against Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif.

Frazier, recognized as heavy-weight champ in five states, took care of Mexico's Manuel Ramos Monday night in two rounds of wild, free-swinging action at Madison Square Garden.

Jimmy Ellis, the World Boxing Association's champ, is considering a defense in Sweden in late August against ex-titleholder Floyd Patterson. Angelo Dundee, Ellis' manager, has indicated he expected a firm decision on the Patterson bout in a few days.

Both champions, of course, fight in the shadow of Cassius Clay, still unbeaten but not appealing a conviction for failing to accept induction into the armed services. Pending a decision on the appeal, any talk of a Clay match must be vague.

Frazier said after the Ramos fight that he would not fight for a full year "unless I can meet Cassius Clay or Jimmy Ellis."

However, his advisor, Yank Durham, indicated he thought the champ would have second thoughts if the right money were offered.

"I would like to fight Quarry," said Frazier. He didn't say when. "I like to see a nice guy make money and he seems to be a nice guy."

Harry Markson, boxing director of Madison Square Garden, said he had talked with the Quarry people Tuesday morning. Quarry was beaten by Ellis in the final of the WBA tournament.

"Jerry showed a strong interest, an eagerness to fight Frazier," said Markson. "I have not talked to the Frazier people yet. It's too early. They have to have a chance to relax. We would like to promote the match in September or October."

Jack Hurley, manager of Boone Kirkman, the Seattle heavy, claimed he was being bypassed and offered to guarantee Frazier "whatever the grand Madison Square Garden grossed for the Ramos fight."

The fight drew 10,785 and a gate of $121,302. Obviously the 4-1 odds against Ramos and his unimpressive workouts in training camp hurt the promotion. Frazier reportedly got a $125,000 guarantee against 40 per cent of the gate, and Ramos 20 per cent. The television rights brought about $50,000.

Football Game Site Changed

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — Waynesburg College said Tuesday its football game with Fairmont State Sept. 14 has been switched to Uniontown High School stadium because the high school field can seat a bigger crowd.

Waynesburg said interest in its game with the defending NAIA football champions is running so high that as many as 10,000 may want to attend.

College Field here seats only 3,000 while the Uniontown High stadium can seat about 10,000. Uniontown is about 30 miles from Waynesburg and approximately 40 from Fairmont, W. Va.

British Golf Rained Out

WALTON HEATH, England (AP) — Rain washed out the first qualifying round of the 1968 British women's golf championships Tuesday and thereby created a new test of stamina for 96 competitors, including America's seven Curtis Cup players.

The schedule of 18 holes on each of two days qualifying to cut the field to 32 for match play was thrown out of kilter.

The championship committee decided to have only one 18-hole qualifying round Wednesday with 64 rather than 32 surviving.

The ambition of an 18-hole final Saturday was thereby spoiled as the girls will have to play semifinals Saturday morning and the final in the afternoon.

Rusky Breaks Own Record

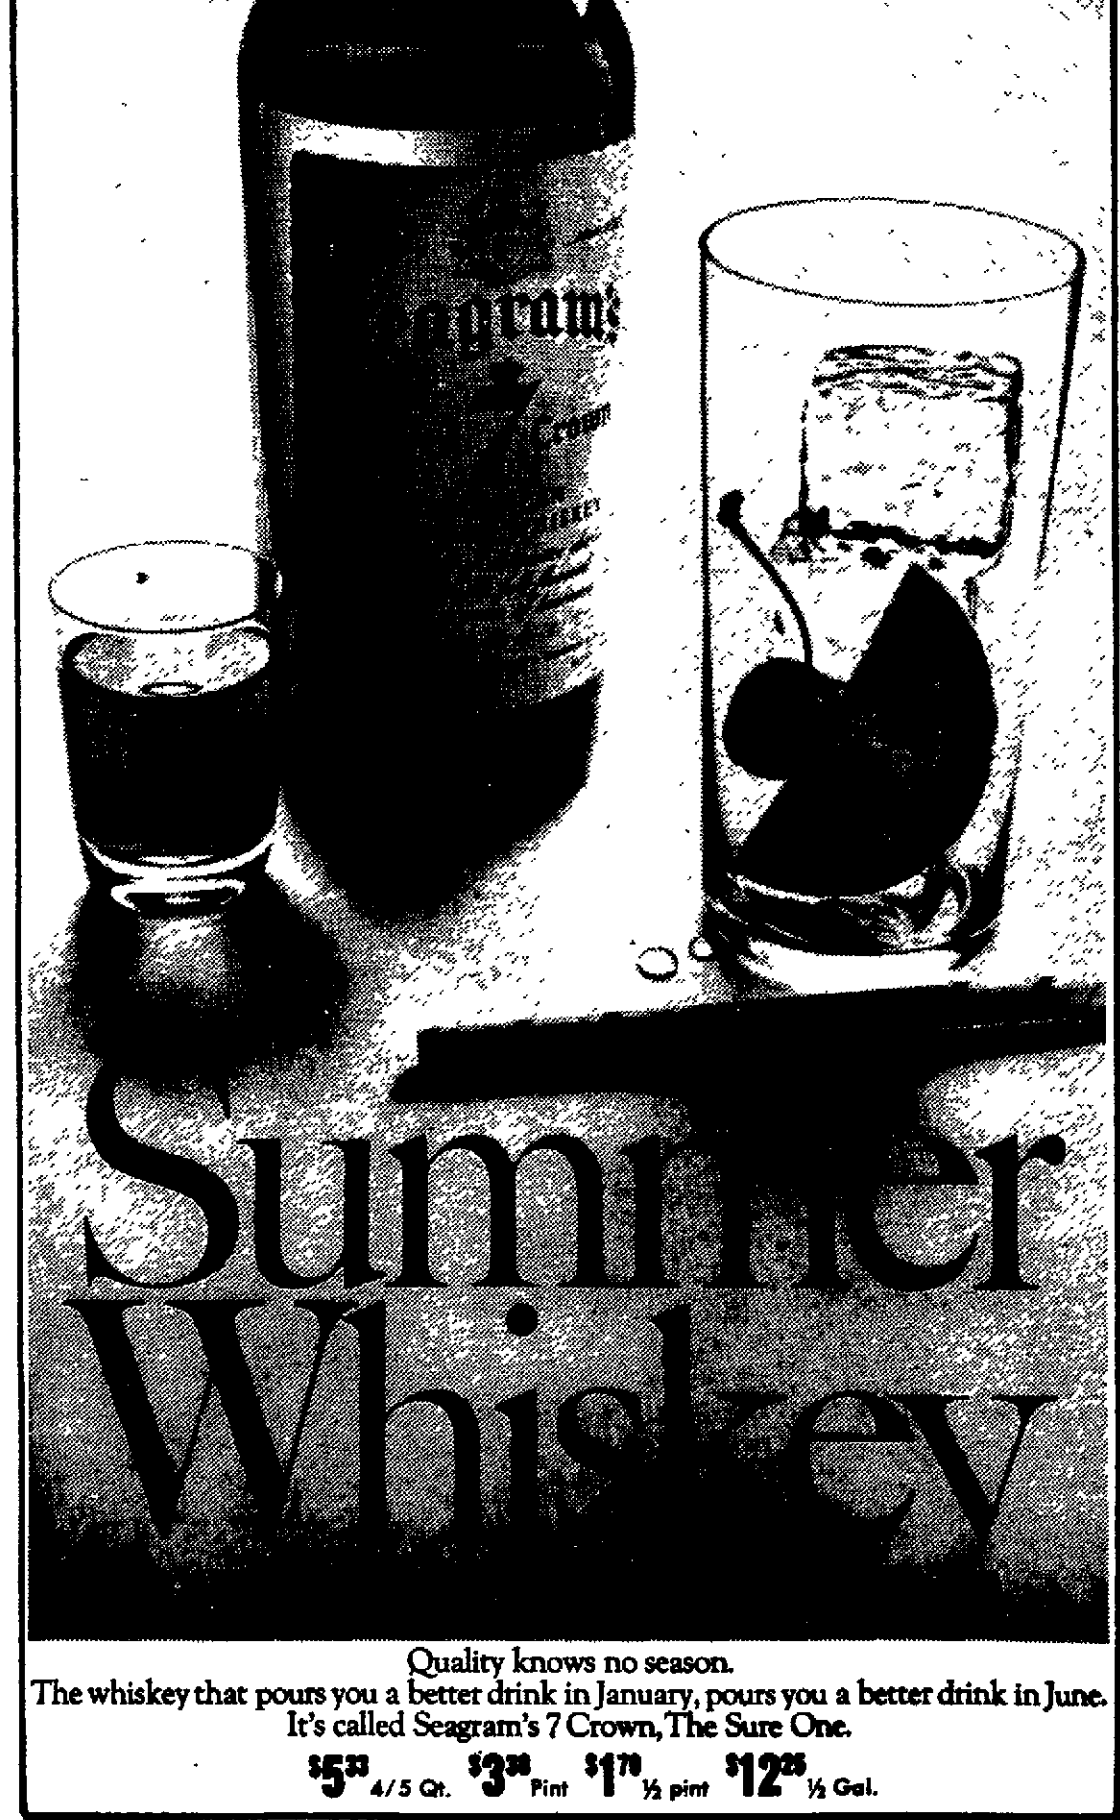

LEINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Leonid Zhabotinsky, Russia's Olympic and world heavyweight champion weightlifter, broke his own world record for the snatch with a lift of 398 pounds in the European championships Tuesday night. This eclipsed his record of 386 pounds.

"We need Ken Brett; send him immediately." And who is Ken Brett? Why he's the small looking six-footer who last year worked his way up from Winston-Salem and Pittsfield and looked so great in the World Series against the St. Louis Cardinals. And he only turns 20 next September.

If no exhibition is played the Red Sox will pay the Colonels $5,000.

So if the Red Sox stay close, then come up with injuries or pitcher Jim Lonborg's comeback attempt fails, they have some good material in Louisville. All Bosox farm director Mahoney need do is pick up the phone and say:

Red Sox Look to Colonels If Pennant Express Stalls

If the Boston Red Sox run into trouble during the defense of their American League pennant — they can always go to Louisville.

In these troublesome days of switching franchises and adding new ones they would go to Louisville only for help because the Colonels there comprise the No. 1 farm club of Tom Yawkey's Boston enterprise.

Dave Morehead, Ken Brett, Darrell Brandon, Galen Cisco and Billy Farmer, who last year won 10 games for Pittsfield, Mass., at age 20, are some of the pitchers down on the farm, hard by Churchill Downs where a pain killing drug called phenylbutazone cost Dancer's Image and owner Peter Fuller $122,600.

The Louisville Colonels won 11 of their first 13 International League games this spring but tests similar to those given the Kentucky Derby winner were unnecessary.

The Colonels also have Red Sox chatteis in promising catcher Jerry Moses, 21, of Yazoo City, Miss.; second baseman Sid O'Brien, young first baseman Jose Calero and others who someday figure to graduate to the bigs. Recently, the Colonels sent star outfielder Joe LaHoud, 20, back to Boston.

The Red Sox have a working agreement with the Colonels. Boston pays the salary and all expenses of Eddie Kasko, Colonels manager who after each game makes out a report which he sends to Boston farm director Neil Mahoney.

Working agreements are fascinating bookkeeping deals. In this instance the Red Sox provide the Colonels with 21 players. The Colonels each month pay the first $600 toward salaries, the Red Sox the balance.

The Bosox also paid Louisville's spring training expenses and all players' incidentals until the Colonels opened their season.

Farm teams receive other help from major league clubs. In this case the big team usually plays an exhibition game with its farm club. However, this year Boston's lack of suitable open dates may prevent such a game.

Illegal Souvenir Guns Reduced To Trickle, Pentagon Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Pentagon official claims tough inspection measures have "reduced to a trickle" the flow of illegal souvenir guns and other weapons from Vietnam to the United States.

Frank Bartimo, head of a special Defense Department committee, said in an interview that only eight weapons were intercepted by customs authorities who went through mail packages in San Francisco during the first two weeks of May.

This compared with 71 weapons seized in February.

Bartimo, the Pentagon's assistant general counsel, said this drop is an indicator of the effectiveness of inspections of servicemen's mail and homeward bound luggage.

Since February, military authorities in Vietnam have used 40 mine detectors, among other means, to ferret out weapons, grenades and other illegal arms from the baggage and packages of American servicemen.

Now the Pentagon has approved a somewhat more sophisticated inspection device—a portable x-ray machine.

The interception effort is a joint operation of the U.S. military and U.S. customs authorities.

It has been accompanied by wide publicity in troop information publications and newspapers, as well as television and radio, and has emphasized that violators may be court-martialed.

Bartimo said the Pentagon has broadened this to a worldwide effort, in hopes of shutting off the movement of illegal arms and drugs into the United States via homecoming soldiers and homeward bound baggage and mail.

Detection devices are used both in San Francisco and New York, the main ports for which service mail and luggage enter the United States from overseas, Bartimo said.

Customs Bureau figures cited by Bartimo also show that seven packages containing explosives were intercepted in San Francisco in the first two weeks of May, compared to 27 in February.

There was a more dramatic drop off in seized shipments of stolen property, such as combat boots and camouflaged clothing.

In March, customs authorities grabbed 1,189 shipments of stolen U.S. property. Only 66 shipments were confiscated in the first half of May.

The intensified effort was touched off by a spot check by customs authorities who seized 56 weapons, including switchblade knives and 12 packets of marijuana and narcotics in one day last November.

In the drug control field, Bartimo said the Pentagon will issue, probably in August, a thick handbook titled, "drug abuse—game without winners."

About 130 of these handbooks are being printed, principally for commanders, spelling out in layman's language the latest research in marijuana, LSD, and other narcotics.

Also in preparation are about four million pamphlets to be distributed to men in the ranks. This one is called "Drugs and You."

Man Accused in Drinking Death Awaits Extradition to State

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A young man accused in the drinking death of a teen-age Pennsylvania boy was in jail Tuesday awaiting extradition proceedings.

Baltimore County police picked up John Norcio, 21, of San Jose, Calif., Monday night. He's being held for Pennsylvania authorities under $10,000 bail.

Norcio is accused of buying two bottles of vodka for five teen-age boys while he was visiting relatives in Blairsville, Pa. One of the youngsters, Randy J. Myers, 16, was later found dead of what the coroner said was acute intoxication.

Norcio is charged with manslaughter, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and furnishing alcoholic beverages to a minor.

Dist. Atty. W. Thomas Malcolm of Indiana County, Pa., said if Norcio waives extradition, he will be returned to Pennsylvania.

If he doesn't waive extradition, Malcolm said, Gov. Shafer will be asked to petition the Maryland governor for return of the youth to Pennsylvania.

Europe's Biggest Nuclear Power Station Slated

(c) N. Y. Times News Service

BONN—West Germany's number one power producer is planning to build Europe's biggest nuclear power station, a 1.2 million kilowatt unit to be operational in 1973-74. The builder will be Rheinisch-Westfälische Elektrizitäts Werke.

The power station, twice as large as any West German nuclear power plant currently under construction, will cost about $125 million. It will require an additional $25 million for its first fuel loading, an R.W.E. spokesman said this week.

According to the spokesman, the power plant will be built in the industrial Frankfurt-Mannheim area and use a light-water reactor of proven American design. Its builders will either be Siemens or A.E.G., West Germany's biggest reactor manufacturers, licensees of Westinghouse and General Electric, respectively.

R.W.E., which generates 40 per cent of West Germany's power production, has already approached the authorities on a building site at Biblis, 12 miles north of Mannheim. However, three other sites have also been mentioned for the project.

According to the power company, there has been no decision whether the new plant's capacity is to be wholly used for power or whether part of it will be used to supply local industries with process steam.

Chemical industries, chief users of process steam, are heavily concentrated in the Frankfurt-Mannheim area. The huge B.A.S.F. chemical works are located at Ludwigshafen, Mannheim's twin city across the Rhine, and Farbwerke Hoechst, Germany's second chemical giant, is located at Frankfurt.

Recreation Area Plans Outlined

Plans were discussed Tuesday morning for the proposed Hemlock Park recreation area in Elk township.

The site is a five-acre, wooded plot presented to the Warren County Commissioners earlier this year by Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, of Yule Tree Farm, Akeley.

Members of the U.S. Forest Service met with the county commissioners to offer recommendations for development of the picnic area, suggesting that parking facilities be the first concern. There is room for 18,000 square feet of parking.

Land will be cleared, leveled and 100 yards of gravel installed.

Some trees must be removed and ANF officials stated this would be a good winter project for the Job Corps. The latter is available now to start on some of the preliminary work.

It is anticipated rest rooms will be constructed locally and sealed vaults purchased.

The commissioners indicated they wanted more complete plans than are currently available so the project will be delayed.

The planning office will write a job description, staking out paths, roads, latrines and garbage can locations.

An interested group will tour the proposed park at 1 p.m. Friday. Means of funding the project are also being studied.

Local Scout Camping Schedule Announced

The first of four weeks of camping for local Boy Scouts will begin Sunday, July 7, 1968 at Camp Olmsted, John Kloos, district scout executive of the Chief Cornplanter Council, will be camp director. Over 350 boys and leaders from 25 Scout troops are expected to camp at Olmsted this summer.

Adult leadership for provisional camping will be available the third and fourth weeks of July (July 21 and 28) for any Scout who cannot come with his own troop or would like to attend camp for two weeks or more.

An aquatic area located on the Kinzua Reservoir is being prepared for the campers.

Another program will be a leather award called the "Scalp Patch Award." Requirements to earn that badge are participating in an inter-troop campfire program of scout skill competition event; earning a Merit Badge at camp, advancing one rank; taking part in an overnight out-post camping experience; achieving a rating of good or excellent in the FIT FOR TOMORROW physical fitness tests; achieving any of the following—scoring 35 or better of 50 on the rifle range, swimming 1/2 mile, scoring 30 of 50 on the archery range or shooting 3 of 8 on the musket range.

Each Thursday night a program will be presented about the Philmont Scout Ranch, with a "cracker barrel" following for all boys and leaders.

Democrats Propose Cutting General Appropriation Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House engaged in a lengthy debate Tuesday night on Democratic amendments proposing to cut Gov. Shafer's $1.7 billion general appropriation bill by $24 million.

The Senate, meanwhile, continued to move on Shafer's $2 billion budget for the 1968-69 fiscal year beginning July 1 by approving $132.5 million in money bills for state-related and state-aided colleges, universities and hospitals.

The minority House Democrats had some 60 reductions to offer, even though the initial proposals in the package were defeated on almost straight party line voting.

The huge general appropriations bill, which was passed by the Senate two weeks ago, 44-0, covers 80 per cent of state spending in a given fiscal year.

The Senate, which concluded a late session at 7 p.m., marked time awaiting House action on the measure. Senate concurrence in a $720,000 increase for Cheyenne State College was necessary before the bill could be sent to Shafer.

Included in the money bills approved by the Senate were $59.2 million for Pennsylvania State University and $32 million for the University of Pittsburgh, two of the state's three state-related universities.

A $31.4 million appropriation to Temple University, the third state-related institution of higher learning, was passed over, along with $2.4 million for Jefferson Medical College and $1.5 million for Hahnemann Medical College.

All three schools are in Philadelphia.

Senate Democratic Minority Leader Ernest P. Kline, D-Beaver, conceded there were "some problems" in his caucus over the bills but predicted their passage in the near future.

In addition to the Penn State and Pitt appropriations, other major measures sent to the House by the Senate included: $11.8 million for the University of Pennsylvania, $8.8 million for perating grants to community colleges and $5.9 million for capital assistance to community colleges.

Senate Democrats inserted amendments into 10 of the bills specifying that if the affected institutions should receive a separate appropriation for doctoral programs, the amount would be deducted from their regular allocation.

"We want to make it clear that these institutions could expect no additional funds for doctoral education," Kline said.

The amendments affected only private institutions such as Penn Hahnemann and Jefferson, which receive state aid.

Shafer proposed earlier this year to phase out over a period of years the state's costly aid to private schools and replace it with a limited form of assistance for doctoral programs.

In other developments: Senate Republicans rebuffed Shafer by defeating an administration reorganization plan which would have transferred the Human Relations Commission from the Labor and Industry Department to the Governor's Office. Minority Democrats supported the transfer.

Reorganization — The Senate defeated, 41-0, two other Shafer reorganization proposals. They would have transferred the State Employees Retirement Board to the Governor's Office of Administration and the Municipal Employees Retirement Board to the Department of Community Affairs. Both currently are located in the Department of State.

Immunization — The Senate sent to the House a bill which would exclude doctors and nurses from liability for negligence when participating in mass immunization projects approved by the Department of Health. The vote was 32-11.

John Galayda Acquitted Of Gangland-Style Killing

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — John Galayda, 38, of Monessen was acquitted of a murder charge Tuesday in the gangland-style slaying of night club owner Anthony Scottchell of Westover, W.Va.

Galayda, an admitted gambler, had been stoic throughout his long trial in Fayette County Criminal Court, but he paled slightly as he rose to hear the verdict of the seven men and five women jurors.

When jury foreman Earl Brashear announced "Not guilty!" Galayda sighed audibly, turned and thrust his hand into that of his lawyer, William E. Duffield.

Mrs. Galayda, tears streaming down her face, leaned over the railing and shook hands with Duffield, too.

From her second row seat among the spectators, Scottchell's widow, Josephine, sobbed loudly. Several of Scottchell's brothers sat nearby, grim-faced.

Although cleared of the murder charge, Galayda was not released. Deputies marched him back to his cell in the county jail where the federal government has a detainer against him in connection with a post office burglary at Flemington, W.Va.

The jury got the case at 12:05 p.m. after a charge by Judge John I. Munson. They immediately had lunch, then deliberated one hour and 45 minutes before coming in with their verdict at 2:56 p.m.

Police said Scottchell was shot four times in the head at an abandoned mine near Belle Vernon the night of Jan. 6. The slaying went undetected for three weeks until Scottchell's body was discovered stuffed inside the trunk of his expensive car at a restaurant and motel in the Pittsburgh suburb of Baldwin Borough.

Another man whose name figured in the case was John Krukar, who lived near Morgantown and who was found shot to death along a West Virginia road about two months ago.

Krukar's widow, Carol, and Bonnie Jo Shroyer of Columbus, Ohio, were the Commonwealth's two key witnesses.

They testified that Galayda told them he was involved in the Scottchell slaying with Krukar.

Galayda admitted having affairs with both women, but he denied having anything to do with the Scottchell death.

He testified that on the night of the slaying he played cards at the Krukar home, then drove to his own home in Monessen before returning to Morgantown to gamble until dawn.

'Carmen, Baby' Film Impounded By Deputies

FALCONER, N. Y. — Deputy sheriffs stopped the showing of "Carmen, Baby" when they impounded the film at the Falconer Drive-In and arrested the theatre operator at 12:35 a.m. Sunday.

Howard McPherson, 61, of Bemus Point, the operator, was charged with disseminating indecent material to minors.

Deputies said they acted upon a complaint that the movie, while advertised for adult audiences, was shown to a minor. They refused to identify the complainant.

The movie is based around a woman with sordid morals. The arrest is believed to be the first in western New York since movie censorship was eased.

A spokesman at the drive-in declined to discuss the arrest and when asked if the theatre was closed replied "we certainly are back in operation."

The directors were informed of the commonwealth approval for the first phase of the Center, including approval of drawings by the Dept. of Labor and Industry. Whenever final state approval is given bids will be let for construction.

State approval is necessary because the Chapel will be built on state property. When the privately built chapel is completed the commonwealth will assume all future care and maintenance.

HOW TO BE A COOL BEAUTY. With temperatures soaring, the most envied look a girl can have is — cool. Granted, it takes more effort to look frosty during a heat wave, but it can be done. Start each day with a lukewarm bath or shower; using cold water increases the body's insulation by shrinking blood vessels. Drink plenty of water and fruit juice to help your body stay cool. Dress sensibly. Don't wear close-fitting, tight or easily creased clothes. Dress in cottons of soothing shades, preferably light, solid pastels.

TOURING EUROPE FOR SIX WEEKS this summer are two local young women, Miss Linda Dalrymple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Dalrymple, 8 Woods rd., North Warren, and Miss Francis Scallise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Anthony Scallise, 213 Oneida ave., Warren. Having left for New York June 18, they will meet with their tour group in Amsterdam, Holland. Their tour will take them to Holland, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, France and England.

In each country the group will be guided by a native student familiar with the history and culture. There will also be gatherings in cafes, student clubs, and arranged contacts with students, professors, government officials and professional people.

This fall Miss Scallise will be a senior at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio and Miss Dalrymple will be a senior at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.

 A blind spot, brought on by failure to properly pinpoint the key to success on the deal, led to the defeat of South's six spade contract.

When South freely rebid two spades after East overcalled with two hearts, North was convinced that the partnership had the assets to undertake a slam since his hand was worth at least 18 points in support of spades. He decided to check back for controls by bidding four no trump and, when South showed two aces, North proceeded to six spades.

West opened the eight of hearts and dummy's lone ace won the trick. The king and queen of spades were cashed and, when East showed out on the second round, South deferred drawing the last trump until he had ruffed out his losing heart.

The closed hand was entered with the ace of clubs and declarer led the six of hearts which he ruffed with North's deuce of spades. There were no trumps left in dummy and, since South lacked a quick reentry to his hand, he exited with a small diamond. East put up the queen and then returned a heart which West ruffed with the jack of spades for the setting trick.

Declarer was the victim of his own blind spot in focusing his full attention on the heart suit—which was not actually pertinent to his success on the deal. Inasmuch as a diamond loser is more or less inevitable, the fate of the contract hinges on picking up the queen of clubs for, if the club finesse fails, the opposition will be able to cash the setting trick in diamonds.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—This could be a happy day. Generally it will depend upon your caution, precautions, and also your sense of good will and understanding.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Better be safe than sorry! Take commitments in order, weed out the dubious and time-wasting, and strengthen the old values, ideas, friendships. Avoid extremes.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Mercury, favorably aspected, encourages your talents, but be warned against making errors through haste. Frequency of experiment and practice will give polish plus assuredness. Emphasize your innate originality.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—THINK, then act. Give ear to intelligent suggestions. Many heads can produce variety of thought and substantial judgments, but temperaments must be governed. Limit activity to the reasonable.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Guide fixed intentions with wisdom; some may have to be modified. Subdue excitement, encourage healthy interests and arrangements. Control dissatisfaction.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Remember the potency of the soft answer, the quiet voice. Many things could distract, but if you concentrate on your goals, your strength of purpose will carry the day off well.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—You have a great appreciation of the outdoors, are a lover of music, tradition, justice. Emphasize these traits, and you should have an enjoyable day.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—It's possible to get off on the wrong foot if you are not mindful. But a hint is usually all you people need. On the whole, this is an auspicious day for creativity as well as routine activity.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Review carefully before making decisions. Is your program for the day well conceived, thought out with your usual good judgment? If so, carry on!

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Rule out risks and foolish chance-taking. Maintain a steady hand, watchful eye, and a determination not to forsake principles. Some misleading influences prevail.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Do not jeopardize a dandy opportunity to stabilize your REAL interests now and do bypass non-essentials. Those of your sign can cut through opposition smartly.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—A conscious knowledge of what this day requires, and an intelligent approach can offset immaturity, discordant notes. But you will have to be alert to avoid false moves, plans.

YOU BORN TODAY are friendly, yet have a certain reserve that makes some persons consider you aloof at times. You have great respect for tradition, have a love for old times and often dwell in old memories, inclining to undervalue current situations. In business matters, however, you are quick to note needs for new plans or set-ups. You are a bit too sensitive, which means you can be hurt easily; are sympathetic, self-reliant, kind and gentle. You make competent and patient teachers, but are not always so patient otherwise. You could excel as statesman, historian, lawyer or in any branch of the medical field. Birthdate of: Wm. (Lord Kelvin) Thomson, Brit. scientist; Peter Lorre, actor.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE HOT-RODDER PERSONALITY

A reader writes: "The boy next door drives a hot-rod and is a member of a gang of toughs that stick together like a wolf pack. I heard that adolescents with these tendencies are neurotics, but my husband claims they are juvenile delinquents."

Both of you may be right. Several years ago we wrote about 30 of these hot-rodgers. The article was based on a study by two St. Louis neuro-psychiatrists. The majority are strong, physically mature, sexually precocious, and have behavior problems. They are full of energy and vitality but unable to let off steam in the usual way because of some emotional disturbance.

Their life revolves around the car, which has become part of them. When behind the wheel they feel big and powerful. These boys drive like maniacs but have few accidents. Apparently a desire to live and driving skill pull them through.

In addition, these fellows are bullies and show-offs. Although strong enough to wrestle or play football, team sports are not their cup of tea. Taking punishment threatens their ego because they are uncertain about the results. Many do better in an individual sport, such as swimming. Art, music, and poetry are sissy stuff, and literature is disliked even though the IQ may be above average.

One of the hot-rod addicts was sent to the clinic because he was the terror of the school. He was involved in a series of minor accidents, and the psychiatrist found that these usually followed an argument with his father. "When you go out and have an accident, who gets hurt—you or your father?" The boy was intelligent enough to understand that he was not punishing his dad. He continued psychiatric care and began to drive more sensibly. Today the lad is a responsible young husband.

TOMORROW: Respect the Water.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

FLYING FOR WHOOPERS

A mother writes: Did you ever hear of taking a child up in a plane as a cure for whooping cough?

Yes. This oldie has whiskers, and the practice still may be popular in Europe. Long before the Wright brothers, parents took the whooping youngsters to the top of a nearby mountain. Americans depend upon vaccines and antibiotics, rather than a rarefied atmosphere, to keep the disease under control.

NIGHT AIR AND SINUS

G.N. writes: If a person suffers from sinus trouble, should he keep the bedroom window closed at night?

Some sinus sufferers sleep better with the window closed, but others do not. This is an individual problem and depends upon the cause and whether the membranes are dry or waterlogged.

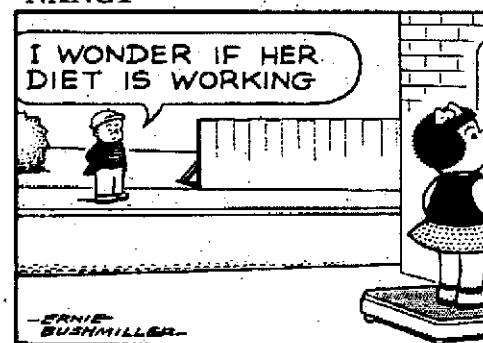

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT

Normal muscles should be used.

Before you sign on the dotted line know what your loan will cost!

You're told in advance at Household Finance. The cost of your loan is spelled out clearly, simply, and in dollars and cents. No extras. No hidden charges. No "surprises" afterward. You get the facts first, before you borrow.

That's one reason why, every year, more than 2½ million people come to us for money service. They get loans to pay bills... to get better cars... to fix up their homes... or to meet other important needs.

When you need a loan, you'll find that you, too, borrow with confidence from the company that tells you the cost of your loan in advance.

Farm Leaders to be Honored

Warren County farm leaders and pioneers in farm programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture have been invited to participate in a statewide formal ceremony in Harrisburg next Friday, June 28, to honor farmers who administered the "Triple A" programs of the thirties. They are William Armitage; Arthur Bradley, Akeley; Charles Camp, Garland, who is at present chairman of the Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee; Nathan Dodd, Columbus; Richard Enos, Russell; Seth Holmes, Pittsfield; Carl Lindberg, Warren; Fred Ludwig, Lander; Clare Pierce, Pittsfield; Clarence Rhinehart, Grand Valley; Hugh Sechrist, Scandia; George Wilcox, Russell; and Michael Zukan, Columbus.

these men will attend. James W. White, chairman of a special committee formed to plan the event, announces that Edwin A. Jaenke, associate administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, will make the main address, and that many other prominent national and state farm leaders are participating. The meeting is being held at the Harrisburg Area Community College, at 1:30 p.m. in Harrisburg, to honor Pennsylvania farm leaders and pioneers in farm programs.

The original Agriculture Adjustment Act (Triple A) was signed into law on May 12, 1933.

There are more than 345 Pennsylvania farmers and citizens still living who helped put the initial programs of Triple A into effect from 1933 to 1940, and to whom citations of recognition will be presented.

Others expected to attend the anniversary event to pay tribute to program pioneers are: the Hon. Leland H. Bull, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture; Joseph Hallowell, president of State Council of Farm Organizations; members of the state's congressional delegation; members of the Pennsylvania state legislature and farm and industry leaders from across the state.

In addition to James W. White, chairman of the Pennsylvania Commemorative committee, other members include: The Hon. Leland H. Bull, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture; John Scott, Master, Pennsylvania State Grange; Henry E. Wilcox, president, Farmers Union Milk Producers Association; Norman F. Reber, editor Pennsylvania Farmer; Thomas H. Patton, director, Cooperative Extension Service; Raymond Kerstetter, director, Farmers Home Administration; R. M. Davis, State Conservationist, U.S. Soil Conservation Service; Dr. W. L. Haining, former State Secretary of Agriculture; and Donald Lanham, member of the Secretary's advisory committee on grains. The ceremony holds special significance for Pennsylvania, whose farmers had their backs to the wall in 1933, when prices for hogs, corn, cattle, wheat, and dairy products hit rock bottom. In late 1932 and early 1933, corn had dropped to 10 cents a bushel, hogs were at or below cost of production, in some areas milk was down to 77 a hundredweight and cattle had dropped to $3.42 per hundredweight.

Try a Picnic English Style

Tired of hamburgers and sandwiches when the family goes picnicking? Perhaps they could stand a change.

Over in merry England, where punting down the Thames to a grassy tree-shaded bank usually precedes the opening of a delicious cold lunch, outdoor repasts usually have quite a different menu.

Cornish Pasties and Melton Mowbray pies are the popular foods, eaten cold and in the hand. The fillings are hearty and flavorful meat and the crusts are crunchy and rich in contrast.

Picnic pies should be popular in this country too, as they are delicious eating and easily made with the fine frozen pie crusts and mixes available at food markets. They will be a great and pleasant change from the overworked sandwich theme.

Today's lightweight aluminum pie pans are convenient to use for these pies. They don't need to be returned home. Insulated food hamper have replaced the old wicker basket and frozen cans of refrigerant keep all foods cool and fresh.

And of course, there's aluminum foil to wrap everything, as protection from loss of moisture, getting crushed and just to keep everything kitchen fresh.

The menu we picture features Hamburger Picnic Pie, fresh rolls with butter, cheese, little foil frilled bouquets of crisp vegetables and a dessert of fruit. The old fashioned jug can be filled with cider or your choice of beverages from the supermarket. Carry along a few icecubes, tightly foil wrapped to drop in, just before serving.

Try this modern version of an old English picnic. We give two recipes for excellent meat pies, and another for a chicken pie... all to be eaten cold.

- 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
pastry for 2 double crust 9 inch pies (or 8 inch pies)

In a skillet, brown beef and cook onion until tender. Pour off fat. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients, except pastry. Pour into 2 pastry lined pie plates. Cover meat with top crusts, seal edges, slit tops and decorate with scraps of pastry rolled and cut into pretty shapes. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 30 minutes. This is delicious eaten cold in the hand. It may also be served hot. Eight generous servings.

- ENGLISH PICNIC MEAT AND MUSHROOM PIE
2 pounds ground beef

- 2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 pound fresh or frozen mushrooms: chopped or 2-4 ounce cans mushroom pieces, drained
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
1 can (10 3/4 ounces) beef gravy
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
a few grains of pepper
2 eggs, beaten
pastry for 2 double crust 8 or 9 inch pies.

In a skillet, brown the beef in the butter lightly and quickly. Remove the meat and add the onions and mushrooms. Sauté until tender. Remove skillet from heat, return the meat and add all other ingredients except pastry. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Spoon into two pastry lined pie plates. Cover with top crust, seal, slit tops and decorate with scraps of left-over pastry rolled and cut into pretty shapes. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Cool. Eight generous servings.
